

Research Symposium

What is Educational Neuroscience and what do we need it for?

Monday 12th June, 2017, Agora-building, Auditorio 3

- 9:00 Opening of the seminar
- 9:15 Nienke van Atteveldt, Professor: Educational neuroscience: Myths and promising directions
- 10:00 Päivi Helenius, PhD, neuropsychologist: Neurocognitive findings in developmental language impairment
- 10:45 Kimmo Alho, Professor: Attention, distractibility and brain activity in adolescence and early adulthood
- 11:30 Lunch break
- 12:30 Bruce Mc Candliss, Professor: to be announced
- 13:15 Paavo Leppänen, Professor: Internet reading and neurocognitive processes
- 14:00 Coffee
- 14:30 Erno Lehtinen, Academy Professor: What educational science and educational psychology expect from neuroscience?
- 15:15 Ulla Richardson, Professor,: Supporting reading development using the GraphoLearning method
- 16:00 - 18:00 General discussion/Panel discussion with wine and snacks (Agora-building, Lea Pulkkinen hall)

The Symposium is free of charge for all participants, but registration is required. For registration, please visit: <http://cibr.jyu.fi/en/training/brain-summer-school2017/registration-and-participation-fees-1>